Сколько уроков МЭО по английскому языку можно проводить в месяц?

Учитель может использовать уроки как основу КТП, а может гибко дополнять ими свой курс:

- урок целиком включая последовательно все задания,
- только 2–3 задания из каждого раздела,
- разделить урок на 2–3 части,
- отдельные задания как разминка, домашнее задание, для закрепления темы, для групповой работы и т.п.

Если вы хотите использовать данные курсы как основу, то мы рекомендуем:

- 5–6 уроков курса в месяц в 5–7 классах (по 2 академических часа на урок);
- 3–4 урока курса в месяц в 8–9 классах (по 3 академических часа на урок);
- при необходимости количество часов легко адаптировать под формат заочного обучения, уплотнённое расписание или индивидуальные запросы.

Курсы МЭО подходят для дистанционного обучения и модели «перевёрнутого класса»

Актуально даже в условиях постоянных изменений в стандартах благодаря гибкой структуре и избыточности контента: вы всегда найдёте материалы под любой сценарий — фронтальную работу, групповую, домашнее задание, диагностику или индивидуальную траекторию.

Exercise 10. Reading

Read the text and choose the correct answers.

	Paul Smith is only thirteen, but he has already won the Best Young Sportsman of the Year award! "I often take part in different sailing competitions and have some medals. But this award was very important for me. And I'm so excited that I got it!" says Paul happily. Most boys like playing football or basketball, but Paul doesn't. He loves water and enjoys sailing. It's his life. He always goes sailing at weekends. Sailing can be different: it depends on the water and wind, so Paul is never bored. Sometimes Paul goes sailing in a team, but more often he goes sailing alone. Paul's very hardworking and competitive. He works hard and often takes part in different competitions. These competitions are important for every sportsman. It's quite difficult to get a place in the competition teams. Paul needs to do a lot of training and work hard. It's also important for him to be fit, so he tries to eat healthy food like meat, fruit and vegetables. He dreams of winning the Fastnet Race and being a famous sportsman.
	Many people think that girls usually do gymnastics or aerobics and that cycling is for boys. But that's not true. Laura Green is thirteen and she enjoys riding her bike very fast. "I didn't like doing yoga and aerobics. I think they are boring! I wanted to try a different sport. Cycling is different and no girls at my school do it!" says Laura. Laura is a real fan of cycling. She loves this sport and thinks it keeps her fit and strong. She often takes part in different cycling competitions and she has already won some medals. However, this sport can be very dangerous. Laura has to be careful when cycling on roads. She always wears a helmet, special gloves and a special cycling kit. On weekdays, she often goes cycling in the park and in the town stadium. It's good practice for the competitions. Read the text. Are these sentences true or false?

Are people healthier and fitter today than they were a hundred years ago? The answer is "no". At present many of us spend most of the day just sitting in front of a computer or a TV and eating lots of junk food. We are not as physically strong as people were before. What should we do to change this? We should get more exercise in our free time and eat healthy food. Healthy food gives us energy to study and grow strong. We should eat vegetables and lots of fruit with every meal during the day. They contain a lot of vitamins and help us stay healthy. We shouldn't drink fizzy drinks and juice. These drinks contain lots of sugar and it's bad for our health. We just need to drink pure water to keep our bodies active. We should play or do sports as well. There are different kinds of sport we can choose. We can join a sports club or just go cycling with our friends in the park. And we needn't do sports every day. Two or three times a week is enough.

Dear Artem,

Thank you for the last letter you sent me a couple of weeks ago. Nice to hear from you again! You wrote about the way you study at your school. That is great that you attend the school with enhanced education in foreign languages. I'd like to tell you about my school too.

I have been studying at Maidstone Grammar School for almost two years now. Most secondary schools in the UK are comprehensive schools. These are ordinary mixed schools where most children transfer when they are eleven. However, you can try to pass the special exam called "11 plus". If you manage to do it, you continue your studying at grammar school. There are only about two hundred schools of this type in the country. My parents are proud that I go to school with "special status". They say I will get better education and will easily enter the university, but that all is in future. The thing I like most of all is that the key subjects at my school are Science and Maths, just like foreign languages at your school. I always attend these lessons with interest and pleasure.

What more can I say? All the pupils here are boys because girls have their own Girls Grammar School. We do not stay indoors all day long. We have our own Rugby team, train almost every day and often take part in local competitions. Some boys participate in extra-curricular activities in the Drama Department, but I think that is not for me. There are about a dozen clubs, but my favourite are chess and sailing. Yes, the River Medway runs through the town and we sail up and down this river on weekends. I have already learnt to handle the boat well!

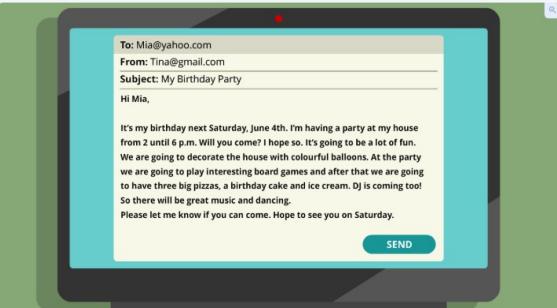

Well, that's pretty much it! I want to ask, do your school provide any co-curricular activities? What are they? How much homework do you have every day? Do you have enough time to do it?

Waiting for your reply,

James

Reading. Shakespeare's motherland

Read the text. What new interesting facts about the UK have you learnt?

If I asked you to think about Shakespeare's motherland, how would you call it? The most likely answers will be Great Britain, the United Kingdom, England or the British Isles. You can even use them all in turn. It is normal to use any notion that you remember and almost everyone will understand you. However, you should not do so because of the big difference between these names.

What we usually mean when we speak about the state on the British Isles is The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland Kingdom (UK) for short. The name tells us about two countries, but actually, the number is much bigger. I think most of you heard Britain includes England, Scotland, and Wales, and this is not the end of it. The British Isles archipelago also comprises the Isle of Man, Guernsey Islands. In fact, these Crown dependencies are not within the UK. Are you confused? I must say, there are 14 more territories in world. All this heritage of the British Empire may seem rather complicated.

England was the first part of future British Empire and remains the largest country in the Union. Wales joined the Kingdom in 1536; later Scotland merged with them too. There was a time from the beginning of 19th century until early 1920s when the Empire included British Isles, but then Ireland declared its independence. It occupies about 83 % of Ireland Island, so only the minor area on the North is UK. Its name is Northern Ireland. Have you heard the word "Ulster"? It is the other name of the same region. The United Kingdom has history and not all citizens of these countries are pleased with this union. Every country in the union still has its own government administrative division.

Now you can see why English and British do not mean the same thing.
